

Michael Stanley

Short bio:

Michael Stanley is the writing team of Michael Sears and Stanley Trollip, both South Africans by birth. Both have been professors who have worked in academia and business, Sears in South Africa and Trollip in the USA. Their love of watching the wildlife of the subcontinent has taken them on a number of flying safaris to Botswana and Zimbabwe. Their novels set in Botswana are A Carrion Death, The Second Death of Goodluck Tinubu (A Deadly Trade outside the US & Canada) and Death of the Mantis.

Long bio:

Michael Stanley is the writing team of Michael Sears and Stanley Trollip.

Both have been professors and have worked in academia and business. Sears is a mathematician, specializing in remote sensing. Trollip is an educational psychologist, specializing in the application of computers to teaching and learning, and a pilot. They were both born in South Africa.

They have been on a number of flying safaris to Botswana and Zimbabwe, where it was always exciting to buzz a dirt airstrip to shoo the elephants off. They have had many adventures on these trips including tracking lions at night, fighting bush fires on the Savuti plains in northern Botswana, being charged by an elephant, and having their plane's door pop open over the Kalahari, scattering navigation maps over the desert. These trips have fed their love both for the bush, and for Botswana.

It was on one of these trips that the idea surfaced for a mystery set in Botswana. This led to their first novel A Carrion Death, which introduced Detective Kubu Bengu of the Botswana Criminal Investigation Department. Kubu's second adventure was in the north of the country, bordering Zimbabwe and its checkered history. The Second Death of Goodluck Tinubu is published as A Deadly Trade outside the US and Canada. Their latest book Death of the Mantis is set in the Kalahari and features the Bushman peoples of the area.